HEAD OF LABOR BUREAU CAUSED TRIAL'S DELAY

Secretary Wilson, in Statement, Takes Responsibility for Postponement.

SOLONS UPHOLD M'NAB

Representatives Kahn and Nolan of California Say Attorney Is Not Actuated by Politics.

The trial of Drew Cammett and Maury I. Diggs, in California, for alleged violations of the white slave law, was postponed by Attorney General McReynolds at the request of Secretary of Labor Wilson, who was acting in the interest of Cammett, father of one of the youthful prisoners, who was appointed Commissioner General of Immigration by President Wilson a few weeks ago. This was learned officially by The Herald last night.

Attorney General McReynolds declined to make any formal statement in reply to the sharp telegram of John L. McNab, United States District Attorney at San Francisco, to President Wilson, tendering his resignation because of the Attorney General's action in holding up the trial over his protest not only of the Cammett-Diggs white slave case, but the trial of officials of the Western Fuel Company for violation of the customs laws.

"This course," said McNab in his telegram to the President, "after I have advised the Department of Justice that attempts have been made to corrupt the government and that friends of the defendants (Cammett and Diggs) are publicly boasting that the wealth and political prominence of the defendants' relatives will stay my hand through influence at Washington."

The publication of the McNab telegram caused a stir in official and political circles yesterday, and interest in the case became more intense when it became known that it was acknowledged that the trial of the alleged offenders under the white slave act had been postponed at the indirect request of the father of one of them, who has just been appointed to an important place under the Wilson administration.

Father Asks Postponement. Commissioner General Cammett was formerly a State Senator of California and a leading Union Democrat of that State. His appointment to his new Federal office was made in the recent past. The trial of his son, which was to have taken place within the next few days, has given him grave concern.

He has been in California where the case came up. With this end in view, he is said, to Secretary of Labor Wilson and urged that he be permitted to make the trip to the Coast at this time, and the matter of the trial and to be with his son at the time of his appearance at the bar. He regarded this as essential and feared that his son's welfare might suffer as a result.

FIRES ON EMPLOYER THEN KILLS HERSELF

Maid, Denied Caress, Attempts to Kill Denver Society Woman and Commits Suicide.

Denver, June 22.—An attempt to shoot Mrs. Renetta S. Van Schaack, society leader, at her home at 157 Lafayette Street, was made today by Clara Ward, twenty-five years old, housemaid, who a few moments later placed the gun to her temple and killed herself. The first bullet came within a few inches of Mrs. Van Schaack's head, and the muzzle of the revolver was so close that she was slightly burned.

The maid had become greatly enamored of Mrs. Van Schaack, who is a beautiful widow and had often sought caresses from her. Today she asked if she might kiss the matron. A refusal caused the girl to go to her room where she procured a revolver.

It had two tiny teeth visible in its bill. It lived only a few minutes after it had pecked or gnawed its way out of its shell. The freak had only one eye.

SOCIETY GIRL, ARRESTED, PLANS FIGHT ON POLICE

Miss Florence Elliott and Army Officer Escort Claim Philadelphia Blue-coats Used Abusive Language.

Philadelphia, June 22.—As a result of her arrest early this morning while returning home with Lieut. Earl Hochwalt, U. S. A., Miss Florence Elliott, daughter of the late Charles D. Elliott, and one of the most prominent society girls of Philadelphia, will begin a prosecution against the two traffic officers who made her arrest, and a wholesale crusade against the police force is expected to follow.

"While I am enraged and mortified at the unjustified arrest of Lieut. Hochwalt and myself," said Miss Elliott, "I shall have my principal charges on the indecent and abusive language used by the officers when we addressed them concerning the injury to my dress."

Miss Elliott and her escort were returning home along Broad Street shortly after midnight when they walked under the covered way erected in front of the Manufacturers' Club is being erected. A heavy rain had loosened a mass of plaster on top of the covered passage and a large piece of this dropped on to Miss Elliott's back, ruining her dress.

Lieut. Hochwalt told Reserve Officers Blackburn and Snyder, who were on duty at the nearest corner, that they should make a report of the matter.

Miss Elliott, her escort, and several friends who chanced to be passing by at the moment, the police officers turned on Miss Elliott and told her she should be on Callowhill Street, in the heart of the Tenderloin, instead of on Broad Street. This so angered Lieut. Hochwalt that he gave vent to his feelings and the policemen in turn arrested the couple.

On the arrival of A. D. Wilder, an attorney and former associate of Miss Elliott's father, at the police station, Miss Elliott and Lieut. Hochwalt were released, and an investigation begun.

Bryan Backs Up Currency Reform Bill in Formal Statement, Urging Both Parties to Give It Support

Secretary of State Praises Measure Said to Have Come Partially from His Pen, Saying It Will Prove a "Blessing to Country."

Secretary of State Bryan last night put his shoulder to the administration's currency bill. In a formal statement Mr. Bryan warmly indorses the currency bill in every particular and urges both Democrats and Republicans to support it. He holds that it adequately protects the interests of the people; that its advantages to the banks are such that they should be willing to accept it without question, and, finally, that it will prove a blessing to the business interests of the country.

The importance of Mr. Bryan's declaration lies in the fact that it will bring solidly into line for the administration's currency bill most of the Democrats who have worshiped at the Commoner's shrine in matters of banking and currency revision. Mr. Bryan himself has not disclosed what part he took in the framing of the bill.

He acknowledges that he was not in favor until recently of currency legislation at this time, but this was solely because he thought it impossible to get such a good bill as has now been prepared. The bill, he said, is the administration's bill, the bill of the minute, by which the President is given the power of appointment of all members of the Federal reserve board, has been attributed to Mr. Bryan's activity. Here is Mr. Bryan's statement:

"I am glad to indorse most earnestly and unreservedly the currency bill which has been prepared by the chairman of the two Congressional committees, in conjunction with the President and Secretary McAdoo. It is a much better bill than I supposed it possible to secure at this time. Conflicting opinions, honestly entertained and strongly adhered to, have been reconciled, and success has been expected. I have doubted until recently the wisdom of attempting currency legislation at this session, but my doubts were largely due to the fact that I feared the difficulties in the way would prevent an agreement upon a plan.

"The plan which the President now urges confers great advantages upon the people, and it is in my opinion, the best plan that has been proposed. It is essential for the protection of the public. The notes are to be treasury notes, issued by the government and redeemed by the Federal reserve banks. This is in harmony with the Democratic contention. There is no surrender of the government's right to issue money. The plan is to be a currency bill, not a money bill. The plan is to be a currency bill, not a money bill. The plan is to be a currency bill, not a money bill.

40 INJURED WHEN TRAIN JUMPS TRACK

Five Crowded Coaches Roll Down Ten-foot Embankment—One Person May Die.

Rochester, N. Y., June 22.—Forty persons were injured when five coaches of an excursion train on the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railroad, from this city to Bradford, Pa., left the track and rolled down an embankment near Cuylerville Station, thirty-three miles west of here, this morning. One of the injured passengers is expected to die and four others are reported to be in a dangerous condition.

The train carried several hundred passengers, and that none was killed outright is considered a miracle by those who were through the wreck at the time. As the train was proceeding at the rate of thirty miles an hour a bolt on the tender broke, thus pulling on the air-brakes with such force that the first car jumped the track. This in turn carried off the following four coaches of the train. These coaches bumped along over the ties for a short distance until they struck a slight curve causing them to leave the embankment and roll into a ditch ten feet below. When the coaches rolled down the embankment the remaining cars of the train also left the track, but they remained hanging on the edge of the grade.

The eight most seriously injured were taken to the Seneca Sanitarium and the others were taken to Rochester. A special train which was rushed to the scene of the accident, according to persons who were in the wreck, many of these injured were persons who were standing in the aisles.

The injured are all from Rochester.

BEAR COMES TO TOWN.

Makes Visit at Night, Is Wounded, and Then Makes Off.

Vancouver, Wash., June 22.—A black bear created some excitement the other night within the city limits of Vancouver at Thirty-fifth and V Streets. The animal was shot at by Fred Laws, but escaped with a bullet in its body. Blood was found on the ground where the bear stood when shot.

In the vicinity are a number of homes, and it is a mystery how the bear got so far into a settled community. As soon as it is spread about that the animal had been seen, Laws and Clinton Kirk secured guns and went after the animal. Laws saw him first and fired, and the bear disappeared in the brush.

55,000 Worth of Dogs for Lawsons. New York, June 22.—Four miniature bulldogs, valued at $500, and all considered the best of their breed, have been purchased by Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, and will be added to his Dreamworld Kennels. The dogs arrived today on the American Liner St. Paul.

Throughout the trip the dogs were the pets of the passengers of the vessel, who referred to them as a "pocketful of bulldogs" because of their small size.

MR. BRYAN'S OPINION OF CURRENCY REFORM

"It is a much better bill than I supposed it possible to secure at this time. The great point of advantage to the banks—as an advantage that ought to make them willing to accept the bill without question—is that it furnishes a currency that can be secured in time of need without having to put up bonds as security."

"The business interests, I think, will welcome the bill as an unalloyed blessing."

"The bill is a faithful fulfillment of the promise made in the Baltimore platform."

"I feel sure that the Democrats of the Senate and the House will rally to the support of the bill, and I am sanguine enough to believe that it will receive cordial support from the Republicans, as well."

TEXAS SOLON, AUTHOR OF RIVAL MEASURE, DECLINES TO TALK

Representative Henry, who has announced that he is preparing a currency bill that will be offered as a substitute for the measure favored by the administration, refused to comment on the Bryan statement further than to say: "I do not care to discuss the question at this time."

However, it is the understanding that Mr. Henry will go ahead with work on his bill and introduce it in due season. So far as can be learned, he has no idea of abandoning the movement that he is making to effect to induce the House to renew the Money Trust inquiry.

In this undertaking he will have the support of at least two members of the Banking and Currency Committee, namely, Representative Neely of Minnesota, who was a member of the Pujo board, and Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, a Bull Moose.

PUZZLING POINT IN INCOME TAX CLAUSE SETTLED

Mutual Insurance Concerns Exempt Only in So Far as They Are Mutual.

PROVISION IS REWRITTEN

Sums Derived from Investments in Bonds, and Not Distributed to Policy Holders, Will Be Taxed.

INCOMES OF mutual insurance companies will be exempted from taxation under the Underwood tariff bill in just so far as the companies are mutual and no further.

Such is the conclusion of the subcommittee of the Democratic majority of the Finance Committee, that spent the greater part of yesterday in perfecting the income provisions of the tariff bill. The question raised by the mutual insurance companies has been one of the most perplexing with which the subcommittee has had to deal in rewriting the income tax law. The subcommittee finally reached the conclusion that many companies that claimed to be mutual are only partially so, and they decided that the only exemptions that will be allowed to this class of taxpayers will be upon so much of their income as is actually distributed among policy holders.

Stand of Commoner Held to Be Important, as It Will Bring His Followers on Questions of Monetary Policy Strongly Into Line.

"The business interests will, I think, welcome this bill as an unalloyed blessing. It gives them, through the banks, a promise of relief in any time of stringency, and it gives this promise without putting in the hands of the banks a power that might be used against the public."

Faithful to Platform.

"The bill is a faithful fulfillment of the promise made in the Baltimore platform, which reads as follows: 'We oppose the so-called Aldrich monetary bill or the establishment of a central bank, and we believe the people of this country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the "money trust."'

"Banks exist for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it."

"I feel sure that the Democrats of the Senate and House will rally to the support of the bill, and I am sanguine enough to believe that it will receive cordial support from the Republicans, as well."

CAPITAL DOCTOR PLANS HAVEN FOR CROESUSES

Dr. Edward Bedloe Outlines Palatial Hotel for Rest Cure for Tired Millionaires.

SAYS RICH MEN WANT HOME LIFE

Atlantic City, N. J., June 22.—"Health is one means to wealth," said Dr. Bedloe, of Washington and Atlantic City, at his home here today. "Life without health, with or without wealth, is not worth living," concluded the doctor, in discussing the importance and value of the present pure food propaganda by Dr. Warren in his war on dealers in spurious foodstuffs, and adulterated liquors sold in Atlantic City.

"The vital question of one of importance not alone to the poor in purse, but it also seriously concerns all of our residents and visitors here, is the health of the community."

"We have magnificent hotels, but our nation's wealthiest people are not attracted to our fair city because of a lack of the highest grade of luxurious home accommodations for the weary millionaire in quest of the best of the world can produce and different from hotel life."

A safe harbor would bring millions of dollars to Atlantic City. The reclamation of land on the western shore of the inlet, under the control of the city, and kept forever free and unobstructed, as a beach boulevard and marine park would highly enhance property values.

"This improvement will encourage capitalists to construct the long ago proposed hotel that is to be far superior to any existing today."

"The plans for the proposed structure, to be built up on the beachfront, convenient to the trolley and Boardwalk, are the result of the physician's art and architect's skill. The plans have been approved by a committee of progressive gentlemen of wealth who will direct its construction when the improvement of Absecon Inlet is assured and the reclamation of the beachfront in that vicinity."

"This modern seashore home for the entertainment and restoration of weary millionaires will combine the luxuries of an Italian palace and the seclusion of a cottage. The main idea is the construction of a great U-shaped apartment house looking seaward in three directions, in which each floor shall be a complete home. Yet there may be some community of interest. Thus, Lucullan repasts may be prepared in a great kitchen and whisked by electric elevators to each floor. The lofty roof will be covered with a spacious garden overlooking the prehistoric delights of Babylon, where plants, fountains and flowers will supplement to eye and ear the soothing charm of music to the ear."

Tests Father's Veracity. Anderson, Ind., June 22.—Mamie Holloway, fifteen years old, who disappeared from her parents while attending an exhibition, has been located by the police at the home of a distant relative on West Fourth Street. The girl said her father had always told her that if she ran away he would not hunt for her. She said she was just trying to verify that statement. Her parents, living nine miles southeast of the city, were notified that she had been located.

OFFICIATES AT MIDNIGHT MARRIAGE IN PARK

REV. DONALD C. MACLEOD.

DIES AFTER DANCING "TANGO" FOUR HOURS

Brooklyn Woman Suffers Attack of Heart Disease During "Rag" in Marathon Dance.

New York, June 22.—Mrs. Edna Wagner, thirty-two years old, of Brooklyn, died early today from an acute attack of heart disease, brought on by dancing the Tango, turkey trot, and one-step for four continuous hours at the Marathon dance given by the Ridgewood Block Party Association last night.

More than 1,000 couples started in the annual "Block Party Dance," held on the asphalt pavement, and only five couples, including Richard Wagner and his wife, were left at the end of more than four hours of continuous dancing. The husband was showing signs of fatigue, but Mrs. Wagner was anxious to win the silver trophy offered for the winning couple, as well as to outdance several of her friends.

Just as Mr. Wagner was about to drop out the band struck up a lively "rag," and up and down the block the Wagners "trotted" with increased enthusiasm, until suddenly Mrs. Wagner fell from her husband's arms to the sidewalk. She was rushed to her home and a physician summoned, but she died a short time later.

FLIER, HURT IN FALL, DIES OF LOCKJAW

Earl Sandt Broke Limbs When Machine Hit Roof, and Tetanus Developed.

Grove City, Pa., June 22.—Earl Sandt, twenty-five, an aviator, died in the Grove City Hospital early today of lockjaw, resulting from injuries received in an accident while he was making a flight here ten days ago. Sandt rose to a height of seventy-five feet, when his plane was caught by a downward air current, and dropping suddenly, struck a building. The machine was wrecked, and the birdman sustained a broken left leg and left arm, the bones protruding through the flesh, tetanus developing.

Walter Sandt, a brother, rushed to Erie on a special train and obtained antitoxin, but it was too late.

LADS, ARMS LOCKED, GO TO DEATH OVER FALLS

Boys, Nine and Eleven, Drifted Too Far Down Niagara in Rowboat.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 22.—With their arms locked together, two boys, Hubert Moore, eleven, and Donald Ross, nine, calmly awaited death today as a rowboat in which they had been playing, drifted down the river, plunged over Niagara Falls, and hurled the boys into the whirlpool rapids below the falls. Elliott Thompson, twelve, who had been playing the same boat, rushed to Erie on a special train and obtained antitoxin, but it was too late.

For nearly half an hour scores of persons on the bridge and shore watched in horror as the boat drifted nearer and nearer the falls. The fire department had been telephoned for, but arrived too late to be of any assistance in reaching the boys with ropes.

The boys were playing in the boat and had not it adrift without taking any care with them. Apparently before they realized, the current had caught the boat and they were borne toward the upper rapids and then over the falls. The bodies had not been recovered late tonight.

MODEL MAID HONOR GUEST AT RECEPTION

Helena Schwartz, Who Has Worked at Same Place for Twenty Years, Feted by Employer.

New York, June 22.—Helena Schwartz, New York's model maid, was the guest of honor tonight at a reception in the home of her employer, Mrs. Benjamin B. Jacobson, 30 West Forty-seventh Street. For twenty years the two have been inseparable.

The solving of the problem of mistress and maid, both Mrs. Jacobson and Helena say, can be done if all persons will follow these rules:

1. The maid must not wait for the mistress to tell her what to do. She should always know and do it.

2. When the mistress wants to go out, regardless of plans for the maid to leave the maid must stay at home.

3. If the maid sees that the home is a good one she should appreciate it.

4. Mrs. Jacobson's rules for employers:

1. If they find that the maid is worthy, reckon her as a member of the family.

2. Don't think the girl is a machine.

3. When out with her treat her as an equal, introducing her to your friends.

Squirrels Sustain Enoumenes. Findlay, Ohio, June 22.—The squirrels that have been on Put-In-Bay Island since the historic battle of Commodore Perry have grown small because every squirrel on the island is related to every other squirrel. Every inhabitant has grown up to about half the usual size. To remedy this defect in civilization, the islanders will be liberated this summer in the hope that the race may be restored to its natural size.

ELOPERS WEDDED AT ROCK CREEK AT MIDNIGHT

Atlantic City Professor and Schoolma'am Principals in Romantic Ceremony.

SECRET PLANS "LEAK"

Bride Sits on Wedding Cake in Auto, Couple Pursued by Reporters.

Horace L. Hoch, teacher of German in the Atlantic City High School, and Miss Irene Childrey, also a teacher at the New Jersey seaside resort, motored to the central part of Rock Creek Park and were married at midnight last night on a large boulder.

The officiating clergyman, the Rev. Donald C. MacLeod, of the First Presbyterian Church, went to the boulder in a taxicab. Although plans had been made by the couple for the last two weeks to keep their romantic marriage a secret, the tip got out early last night and newspapermen and others invited themselves to the spot to see the knot tied.

The bride wore a traveling gown of blue, carried a sweet pea with an orchid in the center, and wore a veil of white tulle. The maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Evans, of Atlantic City, who wore a gown of pink chiffon and carried sweet peas. The best man was Theodore Sloat, of Washington, an old schoolmate and fraternity brother of Dr. Hoch.

In her hurry to get into a large touring car before starting for the park the bride sat on the wedding cake.

FRIENDS OF COUPLE AT ATLANTIC CITY SUPRISED AT NEWS

Speed in The Washington Herald.

Speed in The Washington Herald. When it was learned through The Washington Herald this evening that Horace L. Hoch and Miss Irene Childrey were to be secretly married in Washington at midnight, their friends were greatly surprised, despite the fact that persistent rumors had had the couple married before.

Mr. Hoch is the head of the German language department and principal of the City High School and popular among the student body in general there. His original home is Lewistown, Pa. He was graduated from Dickinson and later awarded an L. D. by the University of Pennsylvania. Prof. Hoch has traveled abroad extensively in the interest of his work.

Mr. Hoch is well known here socially, being a leading spirit in several organizations of note.

She is a graduate, W. class, Atlantic City High School, and received a scholarship from Trenton Normal School. She later accepted a position as teacher at the West Side School.

The wedding tonight was the culmination of what appears to be a rapid-fire romance. Both parties kept their plans absolutely secret, although the pretty school mistress on several occasions let slip to close friends her engagement. Inquiries here tonight brought forth the fact that not one person knew of the wedding until enlightened by The Herald.

FEARS FOR HIS LIFE, EVEN THOUGH IN JAIL

Alleged Thief Pleads that Former Accomplices Not Be Placed in Same Building with Him.

New York, June 22.—After an attempt to escape in Montreal, where he had fled to sell his jewelry, a man, a scoundrel from Jacques Dier, on Staten Island, Armand Fouchon was brought back to Stapleton today, along with Ernest Leroy. Owing to the plea of Albert Fouchon, who was arrested Thursday in connection with the Dier case, the prisoners were not confined in the Richmond Jail.

Fouchon insisted if Fouchon and Leroy were placed in the same jail with himself, no bars or guards could be strong enough to preserve his life. Fouchon and Leroy will be arraigned before Magistrate Hanly tomorrow. Remarkable disclosures are expected.

PAWNS HIS GOLD CROWNS.

Man Said He Ate on Other Side of Month, Anyway.

Kansas City, June 22.—"I don't need these teeth to chew on, and they're loose, anyway, an old man said at the municipal pawnshop, pulling seven gold crowns out of his mouth and laying them on the counter.

"These teeth are just a losing investment, as long as I do all my chewing on the other side, anyway. I might as well be getting something on them. Can you make me a loan?"

Ralph Perry, manager of the pawnshop, gave the man $1.7 on his gold crowns and molars.

"When the ones on the other side get loose I'll be back after these," the man promised. "My dentist said there was gold enough in the bunch as he could trade me a set of false teeth for 'em as soon as the crowns all wore out and got loose."

Cat Baby's Defender. Nunn, Colo., June 22.—Arching its back and jumping up and down in the air, a cat belonging to H. F. Zickrick today attracted the attention of Mrs. Zickrick toward a rattlesnake which was creeping toward Beulah, her eighteen-month-old daughter. The cat was playing in the yard. Mrs. Zickrick seized a hoe as she went into the yard and killed the snake just as it was about to spring at the baby.
